FOREWARD

Ever think how dull this world would be if someone, somewhere at sometime hadn't said, "Hey, let's have a party!" Parties are especially welcomed by people who have to live in the nine-to-five existence of gridlock and the same office drudgery day after day. It's as important as the air we breathe to be able to look forward to a gathering of friends. Sharing stories, telling jokes, partaking of great food and drink with everybody talking, laughing, eating, dancing and singing . . .it all excites and stimulates the body, mind and soul. All combined, a party is a wonderful fun time that's usually remembered long after the "Goodnights" are said and the lights are turned out. Before this happens though, someone usually plays a piano a guitar or a HARP, and everyone sings along or at least tries to. And no matter what a person's background is, it's almost always the good old songs the majority of the crowd seems to know. In case you can't think of more than two or three songs, here's ten familiar chestnuts to help you make it through the night, and we've included the lyrics to make life even easier. You're the key to everybody's good time and we hope you have as much fun as all the rest of the gang!
